Eva and Thomas are getting on each others' nerves. The two angels need a break, badly, but being bound to each other by magic means no separate vacations. To make things worse, when Thomas is charmed by a Succubus, their powers are compromised, making them a target for the local demonic population in Italy. When their assignment to save a soul from Hell brings them face-to-face with someone from Thomas' past, Eva is confronted with a choice: complete the mission and safe-guard their charge, or save her partner, the one being with whom she's ever truly connected.
